New freshmen advising system proving successful

by Rebecca Smith
Staff Writer

An extensively changed freshmen advising system in the College of Arts and Sciences is bringing advisers closer to their students.

The Arts and Sciences Residentially-Based Freshman Advising Program began this fall in an effort to make freshmen advisers more readily available to students, said Prof. Edward Laverty, one of the program coordinators.

Under the old decentralized advising system, each freshman was assigned an adviser and the student was responsible for locating the adviser when in need of information, said Laverty.

With the new centralized system, the faculty advisers have dinner one night a week in the complex where their advisees reside, and all freshmen advisers will be available Monday evenings from 6 to 6:30 p.m. at Stewart Complex, said Laverty.

One professor from each major department of the College of Arts and Sciences will serve as a freshmen adviser, said Laverty.

Beginning later in the semester, said program coordinator Prof. John Mairuber, informational presentations will be made by each department. "We hope the presentations will be informative and entertaining," Mairuber said.

Associate Dean Elaine Gershman said the presentations will be geared toward making it easier for students to choose electives. She also said the presentations are not meant to "sell" majors.

"If anything, it might encourage double majors," she said.

Gershman said freshmen were assigned to dormitories based on their major field preferences in most cases. With the exception of a small number of students, Gershman said freshmen arts and sciences majors are being housed in Stewart, Wells and Hilltop complexes.

Administrators set year-long goals for UMO

by Doug Ireland
Staff Writer

Improving the university's academic programs and securing more funding for these will be the main goals for Chancellor Patrick McCarthy and UMO President Arthur Johnson during this final year of their administrations.

Both men said in separate interviews this week they hope to achieve these goals before leaving their jobs next year. "I'm looking forward to this year as being one of the most exciting and productive years at the university," McCarthy said.

However, both men said obtaining increased funding for UMO and the seven other UMaine universities will not be easy.

One way to get this funding is to persuade state legislators to allocate more money to the UMaine system, McCarthy said.

"We want the state to alter its priorities. We want the state to place a larger priority on higher education," McCarthy said.

The UMaine board of trustees' future goals, outlined in the first phase of its five-year plan approved last September, are to strengthen academic instruction and improve programs and services available to students at the seven universities, McCarthy said.

But these objectives can only be met through receipt of additional funding, according to McCarthy, who said the Maine Legislature has usually "supported" the university system in the past.

Allocation of more money to the UMaine system would help UMO become a "more sophisticated institution," he said.

"I want this to be the best undergraduate institution of its type," Johnson said. "We have to reward good teachers. I just sent a criteria to the vice president of academic affairs (Richard C. Bowers) to judge if teachers are 'satisfactory,'" he said.

"I think they have to be more than satisfactory," Johnson said. "That's a high priority for me this year."

"My second priority is to increase academic support. Most of the departments at the university are receiving slim funding," he said.

McCarthy said he will especially concentrate on improving the caliber of UMaine graduate programs.

Both men said they hope this year UMO and the other state universities will become more responsive to the needs of non-traditional students — people who are at least 23-years old and usually have not attended school for several years.

"Even if it is just (providing) baby-sitting (services) we want to help them," said Johnson, who estimated that one-third of all people attending UMO are non-traditional students. Even though they will be leaving their positions next year, McCarthy and Johnson said they may work at other schools. What they will be doing a year from now is uncertain, the two men said.

McCarthy, who will leave UMaine in September after 11 years, said, "I don't have any idea" what I will do." Johnson said he wants to teach, or become an consultant in addition to "doing some of the things that I'd like to do but haven't been able to" as president.

Big-name bands unlikely for UMO concerts

by Cathy Stanley
Staff Writer

It is possible but very unlikely a "big-name" music artist will come to UMO this year, the president of Student Entertainment and Activities said this week.

"It's hard to get a big band up here, and you don't want to put all of your eggs in one basket," said Steve Walsh, SEA president.

"Students here know names like Billy Joel and we don't have the money for someone like that," Walsh said.

In addition to not having the money for a big-name band, Walsh said the campus doesn't have the facilities to accommodate such an event.

The Memorial Gym or Alford Arena wouldn't hold enough people to make it worthwhile and both have poor acoustics, Walsh said.

"We'd have to go to Augusta or somewhere off campus. We would then only be able to have the one concert and that would be defeating our purpose."

"We'll probably go with the smaller bands and get more of them on campus," Walsh said.

In the past two years, REM and General Public, two of the biggest "progressive" bands in the country, have been in concert at UMO, and both had low attendance, Walsh said.

John Olore, program director for the campus radio station, WMEB, said the widely diverse musical tastes of students on campus make it difficult to satisfy their interests, which contributes to low attendance.

Olore conducted an informal poll last spring to see which artists students liked. He discovered James Taylor and Bruce Springsteen were the most popular choices.

"We can't sell a small band and we can't afford a large band. It's a no-win situation," Olore said.

Olore said bands, such as The Hooters and REM, might be popular with the UMO community.

Students have heard more about REM since they played at UMO in 1983, Olore said, and are now more interested in listening to their music. "We need a band that's new and small, but with a lot of potential to become big," Olore said.

Dana Snyder, station manager for WMEB, said promoters are "afraid of Maine."

"General Public sold out at UMass, Colby, and many other colleges but not here," he said.

"It may be the time of the year. Now everyone has money, but after Christmas no one wants to spend eight dollars on a concert," Snyder said.

Foreign language department offering new course in Portuguese

by Robert Hardy
Staff Writer

Beginning this semester, the foreign language department is offering an introductory course in Portuguese and is continuing to sponsor an exchange program that allows UMO students to study in Brazil.

Department chairman William Small recommends the course as "a supplement for students who are studying Latin America or Spanish," but discourages freshmen from taking it unless these courses are required for their majors.

Furthermore, said Small, Portuguese will not be taught beyond the introductory level.

Program coordinator Frank Roberts said, "Any student who hopes to go down to Brazil through this exchange program should take Portuguese. There are more people in South America who speak Portuguese than who speak Spanish."

There are 12 students enrolled in the only section of Portuguese being taught this semester. Such a small enrollment reduces the likelihood of opening more sections, Small said. Vice President of Academic Affairs Richard Bowers said the exchange program was developed through an organization called "Partners of the Americas" which "promotes activities or agreements between North American and South American countries."

"The purpose is to develop a mutual interest concerning the exchange of cultural, technical, and scientific information," Bowers said.

The program allows five UMO students to attend Universidade Federal do Rio Grande do Norte in do Norte, Brazil for one year, while students from that school would attend UMO for one year, Bowers said.

Students pay their own tuition rates at their own universities. "It's just as if they are a student here, attending a year of school over there," Bowers said.

If the exchange student were to take a job as a graduate assistant or faculty member, said Bowers, the student would receive a salary paid by his own institution.

"The graduate assistant or faculty member is recognized as a resource and therefore should be paid," Bowers said.

The exchange program has existed since 1982. It is open to anyone who wishes to participate, Bowers said.

Violence continues, S.African government ignores criticism

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police in an armored vehicle besieged by a crowd of blacks opened fire and wounded three of the blacks, officials said Sunday in reporting renewed anti-apartheid violence in seven districts.

On the political front, the white-minority government shrugged off criticism from white, opposition newspapers that modest reforms of apartheid announced last week had come too late to head off limited U.S. sanctions.

And South Africa business executives, under fire from President P.W. Botha for meeting exiled black guerrilla chiefs, were lauded by English-language newspapers for what one called "doing this country a service."

Botha said last week the government would restore South African citizenship to blacks considered citizens of independent tribal homelands, and a presidential commission recommended scrapping "influx control" laws aimed at keeping blacks out of white areas.

In Washington, Herbert Beukes, South Africa's ambassador to the United States, suggested the Botha government has plans "to dismantle apartheid," but declined to discuss specific measures. He said on NBC's "Meet The Press" that Parliament would be taking up proposals concerning citizenship for South Africa's black majority, and negotiations with black leaders for further political reforms.

Britain may expel more Soviets

LONDON (AP) — British leaders, furious over Moscow's retaliatory expulsion of 25 Britons, held urgent discussions Sunday to decide whether to order out more Soviets following the defection of a purported top Soviet spy.

Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe began what he said were "urgent and careful" talks with aides on how to reply to the Kremlin's announcement of the expulsions Saturday.

Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, said the government would announce its response before Mrs. Thatcher leaves Monday afternoon for a four-day visit to Egypt and Jordan.

The Sunday Telegraph, a strong backer of the prime minister, reported that Britain "was ready to hit back ... and send home more Russians."

Britain announced the defection of Gordievski, a counselor at the Soviet Embassy, on Thursday. It said on the basis of information he furnished, Britain was giving 25 Soviet diplomats, officials and journalists three weeks to leave the country.

The Soviets ordered an equal number of Britons to leave Moscow for activities "incompatible with their status," diplomatic parlance for espionage.

The list included 18 diplomats, two businessmen and five journalists.

Train spills acid, forces evacuation

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A freight train derailed on a trestle, rupturing 26 of its tankers and spilling up to 300,000 gallons of sulfuric acid into a river, killing fish and forcing the evacuation of about 300 people, officials said Sunday.

There were no serious injuries and no danger to water supplies in the Saturday night accident, authorities said. Several people who complained of skin irritation from the acid's fumes were treated by emergency medical workers, said Bexar County sheriff's Sgt. Ray Gerlach.

The evacuations were ordered within one mile of the accident on the Medina River south of San Antonio, said Carl Mixon, Bexar County fire marshal. A nearby school was opened for evacuees who had no place to go.

Complaints increase about speed of Maine's medical agency

WATERVILLE, (AP) — The agency that oversees Maine's doctors is getting an increasing number of complaints, and even some physicians say the Board of Registration in Medicine is too slow to act on complaints against their colleagues.

Ten years ago, the board received only a few complaints, but last year the number shot up to 70.

Maine Medical Association President Dr. Craig W. Young said the board lacks the manpower to thoroughly investigate complaints of incompetent and unethical doctors, and that it frequently fails to act on them.

"You could ask any physician and he would say, 'Yes, I know doctors who haven't kept up, who make repeated mistakes and are hurting people,'" said Young.

He said the board, despite problems with its operation, is still doing its job of ensuring quality medical care in Maine.

Some doctors also say that it is more difficult for an incompetent doctor to continue practicing in Maine than it is in other states, because Maine's medical community is a smaller, more closely-knit group.

ONE OF THE OLDEST WAYS TO BECOME AN ARMY OFFICER IS STILL ONE OF THE BEST.

The Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) is more than a college program. It's a tradition.

For 163 years, ROTC has been training people to do a job that's a tradition. The job of an Army officer.

In 1819, Captain Allen Partridge, a former superintendent at West Point, started what we know today as Army ROTC. He felt our country needed more "citizen soldiers." So he established the first private school to offer military instruction.

It didn't take long for his idea to spread. By the turn of the century, 16 colleges and universities across the country were offering military instruction on their campuses.

Today, with Army ROTC available at over 140 colleges and universities, the program is stronger than ever.

And last year alone, over 70,000 students participated.

Some were interested in the leadership and management training. Others enrolled on full-tuition scholarships. And the financial assistance, up to $10,000 a year during the last two years of ROTC, attracted still others.

But all of them had one thing in common: the desire to be in their future as Army officers.

Why? "You do the same." You'll graduate to a position of real responsibility. Exercise leadership and management skills. Build a secure future for yourself. And enjoy the travel, adventure and prestige of being a second lieutenant in today's Army.

Army ROTC. It's as much of a tradition as the job it trains you for. Find out how to enroll today.

For more information, contact the Army ROTC Professor of Military Science on your campus.

Football team survives shaky start with AIC

by Jon Rummler
Staff Writer

The only positive aspect UMO football coach Buddy Teevens could point out after Saturday's game with American International College was "we won."

The Black Bears defeated the Yellow Jackets from Springfield Mass., 27-17 before 5,400 fans at Alumni Field. UMO is now 2-0 while the Division II AIC squad is 1-1.

The Bears' next game is against Yankee Conference opponent the University of Rhode Island in Rhode Island.

"That was embarrassing that we could play that badly," a disgruntled Teevens said after the game. "I think they (Maine) thought just by showing up on the field they were going to win."

"Still you have to give the other guys credit, they did some nice things and were well coached. They were the better team today."

If there was one period that the Black Bears were ready to play, it was the opening minutes of the second half. After being outplayed and outgained in the first half, Maine rebounded from a 10-7 deficit with two touchdowns three minutes and six seconds apart.

"We had a short spurt right after the half," Teevens said. "But then I think the guys thought this was too easy and laid back from that point."

Three plays after receiving the second half kickoff, AIC quarterback Terry Walles threw a pass into the arms of Black Bear cornerback Jay Davenport. Davenport ran 10 yards and set the Black Bears up on the AIC 25.

"The interception was a dig-in route," Davenport said. "It went over the head of the receiver and into my hands."

The first play from scrimmage, UMO quarterback Bob Wilder (19-for-36 for 185 yards and 2 TD) found receiver Sergio Hebra breaking down the left sideline. Hebra was knocked out at the 1 and tailback Doug Dorsey ran through the left side on the ensuing play for the score. Pete Borjestedt extra-point was good and the score was 17-14 UMO.

Maine attempted an onside kick on the right side but AIC recovered. The Maine defense stiffened and forced the Yellow Jackets to punt after three downs. AIC punter Mike Jerry knuckled a 26 yarder to the Black Bears' 46.

Dorsey opened the drive by taking a pitch from Wilder down right side for nine of his 40 yards (20 attempts). Wilder then hit Hebra (4 receptions for 77 yards) over the middle to the 20. Dorsey got six more yards on a trap up the middle. And an incompleting pass and Maine penalty later, Wilder hit Hebra over the middle for a 19-yard TD strike. With Borjestedt's extra point, it was 24-14 Maine.

With the exception of the AIC's opening drive fumble, which resulted into a 22-yard TD from Wilder to receiver Doug Gsell (7-for-67 yards), the first half

The second quarter, field position proved to be the key as UMO punter Jeff Topliff kept AIC in poor field position, averaging 40.4 yards in nine attempts. Maine got in range for Borjestedt's 33-yard field goal — his first as a Black Bear — by UMO returner Gary Groves' 32-yard run to the AIC 15. The score was 14-10 AIC.

The second half belonged to the Maine defense. The fired up Black Bears, fueled by the short UMO offensive spurt, kept AIC off the board.

"They put a lot more pressure on me in the second half," Walles said. "They just started blitzing more. I didn't have the chance to get the ball away."

Davenport said, "The front line fired off the line a lot better. We were pressuring the quarterback much better."

The AIC defense hit Wilder hard, sacking him four times. But, the specially made shoulder pads did its job and protected his injured left shoulder.

"I had a bad game mentally," Wilder said. "I missed a couple of audible blitzes. It wasn't the offensive line's fault. I didn't help myself."

"I got hit hard a couple of times in the first half. The shoulder stiffened up a little. But in the second half it felt O.K."

Golf takes tourney

BRUNSWICK — The UMO golf team defeated 10 other schools to capture the Bowdoin Invitational played Friday and Saturday at the Brunswick Country Club.

The Black Bears' Chip Ranco, John Hickson, Scott Storgaard, Galen Perry and Bill Turnbull tallied a 635 to cruise to their first title in recent history. UMO had finished second the previous three years.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology at 654 and the University of Southern Maine 655 rounded out the top three teams.

Ranco tore up the course Friday with a day-high score of 73. Hickson 80, Perry and Storgaard, 82, rounded out UMO's opening day. The Black Bears had a seven shot lead over Husson College.

Husson fell off the pace, but UMO, led by Storgaard, 78, Hickson, 79, Turnbull, 79, and Ranco, 82, took the tourney with ease.

Women's X-C wins

Gorham — The UMO women's cross country team cruised the trails of the University of Southern Maine campus to easily capture the Bowdoin Invitational Saturday.

The Invitational is usually held at Bowdoin, but this year the Polar Bears don't have a home course.

The UMO women took the first five places to record a perfect score of 15. The Black Bears outdistanced second place Colby College by 35 points. Bowdoin College finished third.

Cathy Tracy and Rose Prest came across the finish line first for UMO. Their winning time was 18:05. Theresa Lewis and Helen Dawe came in together for the third spot about 30 seconds later.

Diane Wood capped off the Black Bears scoring with a fifth place finish.

Men's X-C win

The UMO men's cross country team opened its season with a 22-38 victory over Bowdoin College Friday afternoon at home.

Bowdoin's Eric Schoening won the race, outkicking UMO's Brian Warren in the final quarter mile of the 5.6 mile course. Schoening ran 28:57.

After Warren (29:06), UMO took the next two places. Matt Dunlap (29:15), and Chris Williams, an exchange student from Idaho (29:37), secured the victory.

Maine's next two runners were Randy Gardella, freshman, and Tom Scagliarini, who finished sixth and seventh overall.

Rounding out the top seven for the Black Bears were freshman Tim Parritt and Bob Cuddy.

NFL update: Marino welcomed sight in Miami

By the Associated Press

Dan Marino won over the fans by winning the game that kept coach Don Shula's home opener streak alive as Miami defeated the Indianapolis Colts 30-13 Sunday.

Marino, ignoring his first Orange Bowl boos, passed for 329 yards and two touchdowns, hitting on 29 of 48 passes.

"I was not worried about the crowd reaction," said the third-year quarterback, who turned 24 Sunday. "I just go out and try to do my job the best I can." Marino missed five weeks of the preseason because of a contract dispute.

Marino, who led Miami to the Super Bowl last season, was booed when he first trotted onto the field, and again when his first pass was behind Mark Duper and fell incomplete. But he connected on the next two attempts and the 53,693 fans were back on his side.

49ers 35, Falcons 16

San Francisco, the defending Super Bowl champion, also turned boos into cheers, as Roger Craig's 62-yard touchdown run highlighted a 35-point, second half which carried the 49ers over the Atlanta Falcons.

The 49ers, losers to Minnesota in their opener a week earlier, trailed Atlanta 10-0 at halftime of their first home game of the season, and they heard some boos from the sellout Candlestick Park crowd.

But San Francisco spurred to a 28-13 lead. Craig ran nine yards for the 49ers first touchdown and Joe Montana scored the go-ahead TD on a one-yard quarterback sneak following a big play by Bill Ring on punt coverage. Atlanta fell to 0-2.

Vikings 31, Bucs 16

Safety Joey Browner returned an interception 15 yards for a touchdown and Rufus Bess blocked a punt to set up another score to lead the Minnesota Vikings over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The victory was the record in as many outings for Minnesota since the return of coach Bud Grant, who was lured out of retirement after the Vikings went 3-13 in 1984.

Seahawks 49, Chargers 35

Dave Krieg threw five touchdown passes, four of them to wide receiver Daryl Turner, and running back Curt Warner rushed for 169 yards and a pair of scores as the Seattle Seahawks rolled over the San Diego Chargers.

The Seahawks, 2-0, prevailed despite a brilliant passing performance by San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts, who completed 29 of his 43 throws for 440 yards and four touchdowns.

Lions 26, Cowboys 21

Eric Hipple passed for one touchdown and ran for another while Detroit's defense forced five Dallas turnovers. It was the Lion's second straight triumph under first-year coach Darryl Rogers.

Hipple, who completed 10 of 23 passes for 141 yards, threw a 21-yard scoring pass to Jeff Chedwick at 4:24 of the first quarter and ran 1 yard for a touchdown at 2:33 of the third quarter.

Rams 17, Eagles 6

Los Angeles' defense collected five sacks, recovered three fumbles and intercepted four passes to beat Philadelphia. The Eagles have only defeated the Rams once since 1959, losing eight times.

Bears 20, Patriots 7

Middle Linebacker Mike Singletary led a smothering Bears' defense with three sacks and an interception as Chicago defeated New England.

The Patriots, 1-1, were able to cross into Bear territory only once until Tony Eason hit Craig James with a 90-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Jim McMahon threw a 32-yard pass to Dennis McKinnon for a touchdown on the Bears' first possession and set up another with a 43-yard pass to Willie Gault before leaving the game with a stiff neck.

Walter Payton also left the game in the third quarter with bruised ribs after gaining 39-yards in 11 attempts. The Bears are 2-0.

Jets 42, Bills 3

Freeman McNeil ran for a team record 192 yards, including a 69-yard dash on the first play of the second half, leading New York over Buffalo and sending the Bills to their 10th straight road loss.

Cardinals 41, Bengals 27

Neil Lomax threw touchdown passes of 27 and 25 yards to Earl Ferrell and Roy Green and Mike O'Donoghue kicked field goals of 46 and 49 yards to lead St. Louis past Cincinnati.

Lomax sent the 2-0 Cardinals ahead 24-14 by finding Green behind Cincinnati cornerback Louis Breen in the third quarter and afterwards teamed with Stump Mitchell on a 42-yard pass play that ended in a scoring run.

Soccer goalie play nets UMO over URI

by Kevin Dietrich

The UMO soccer team, paced by goaltender Jeff Spring and midfielder John Tierney, upended the University of Rhode Island 2-0 Saturday at home.

Maine is 2-1 on the season. URI evens its record to 2-2. The Black Bears will try for their second win in a row this Tuesday against the Boston College Eagles at 3:15 p.m.

Spring was sharp both defensively and offensively. Not only did he shut out the URI squad, he blasted a penalty kick by URI goalie Lance Klima to insure the Black Bear victory.

Spring's opportunity came as a result of a Rhode Island penalty late in the game. The UMO goaltender was then called upon for his shooting ability. A special play in the UMO attack.

Spring booted the ball from the penalty area. It rebounded off Klima and Spring knocked it home, giving UMO a 2-0 lead.

Defensively Spring was just as sharp, making several fine saves and recording his first shutout of the season. "We had a fine defensive game all around, there was a lot of concentration out there," Spring said when asked about the game.

Coach Jim Dyer wasn't quite as pleased with the overall game, noting that, "there was a lack of sharpness and execution." However, even without the effort Dyer wanted, he conceded that his team was still competitive.

As the second half began both teams were deadlocked 0-0. Co-captain John Tierney said UMO had decided to change their plan and "try more short passes in the second half."

The decision turned out to be a wise one as Tierney opened the game's scoring with his first goal of the season at the 10:53 mark of the second half. "The ball was driven downfield by Peter Bouchard," said Tierney describing his goal. "I got it, took a shot and the goalie made an initial save. I got the rebound and put it by him."

Tierney's goal was all the Black Bears needed as they shut down the URI offense through out the contest. The only real scare occurred in the first half when Rhode Island attacker Mark Nahorski set up in front of the UMO goal and lifted a shot towards the net. It sailed over Spring's head but struck the crossbar and bounced away, preserving the shutout for Maine.
